

STEPHENSON IS HERE TONIGHT

Arrived At Twelve Thirty Five Over The Northwestern Road—Spent Afternoon In Beloit.

VISITED THE OLD SINCLAIR FARM

Reception This Evening In The Office Of The Myers Hotel
—Arranged So That Those Employed During Day Can Pay Their Respects To Wisconsin's Junior Senator.

United States Senator Isaac Stephenson arrived in Janesville this noon at 12:35 over the Northwestern road. He was accompanied by J. A. Van Cleave of Marinette, J. H. Puellacher of Milwaukee, Mr. Kelsey and Thomas Bradley. Mayor Heddles, Levi H. Carle, W. G. Wheeler, F. J. Mount and David Atwood were at the station to meet the party and escorted them to the Myers hotel, where an informal reception was held in the office for the first minutes preceding luncheon, which was served for the party at two tables in the ordinary. Waiting in the hotel were other members of the reception committee—Edward Parker, J. L. Fisher, P. F. Stevens, and others, aside from several traveling men who were going out on trains and waited to meet Wisconsin's Senator. William H. Tripp of the town of Rock was at the hotel to shake hands with the Senator and was invited to be one of the dinner party. Immediately following luncheon the party started for Beloit in the Carle and Harris automobile, going by way of the old Sinclair farm, in section 28 of the town of La Prairie. It was on this farm that Senator Stephenson in 1846 worked, breaking ground for the wheat crop that was put in. The site of the old Sinclair house and other landmarks had been carefully looked up by Mr. Howard, who lives there, and were pointed out to the Senator. Mr. Stephenson was much interested in the trip and despite his customary rule never to ride in an automobile seemed to enjoy the trip. He pointed out with interest the old spots where he worked and knew as a young man, and looked with interest on the creek from which he each Sunday used to draw the week's water supply for the Sinclair farm. Among the stories he told of his early experiences here was one of heading the old Liberty Pole, which stood for many years on the highest ground in the townships north of the site and helping raise it. This pole was so long that it was necessary to cut it in two to transport it and then splice it together again. Mr. Stephenson was full of his early life in Rock county and told his experiences as a pioneer with much interest. Mayor Heddles, N. L. Carle, J. A. Van Cleave, J. H. Puellacher, W. G. Wheeler and Senator Stephenson were low met last evening and decided to hold a picnic on Labor Day. Crystal Springs will be the scene of the festivities and ball games and other amusements will be provided. The purpose of the picnic is to raise money for the state convention of the order which will be held here next June.

A LESSON IN GOVERNMENT.
Financier Sam—By gosh! I see that you don't know the first thing about running a government. You have a deficit of twenty million dollars a year, while I have a deficit of 1 million a day.

ORGANIZE EMPLOYEES OF CANADIAN ROADS

International Brotherhood of Railroad Employees is Very Active.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Aug. 21.—The organizers of the International Brotherhood of Railroad Employees have been extremely active during the past few weeks in the districts along the Canadian border and have succeeded in organizing fourteen divisions of the international railroad of Canada.

REPUBLICANS GREET TAFT IN VIRGINIA

Led by Representative Sloop They Rally to Pay Respects to the Candidates.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 21.—A large number of Virginia republicans led by representative Sloop rallied here today to pay their respects to Judge William H. Taft. Judge Taft gave a cordial greeting to the visitors and delivered a short political address from the porch of the clubhouse adjacent to the hotel.

GOVERNMENT FAILS TO PROVE CLAIMS

The Cases Against Prominent Eau Claire Lumbermen Not Sustained by Judge Quarles.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Aug. 21.—S. G. Moon and J. T. Barber of Eau Claire, Milwaukee lumbermen who were indicted by a grand jury in Idaho on a charge of alleged conspiracy to defraud the government out of land, are free from that indictment, unless the government secures on appeal a reversal of a decision rendered last yesterday afternoon by Federal Judge J. V. Quarles. He held after hearing arguments that the indictment did not state sufficient facts to constitute an offense. William G. Wheeler of Janesville, United States district attorney, assisted by Peyton Gordon, special assistant from Washington, tried the indictment for the government, but Mr. Wheeler had nothing to do with drawing the indictment or with the merits of the case, merely appearing and arguing for the government in response to the motion of the defense against being sent to Idaho for trial. They claimed that the indictments were not valid and did not warrant their removal for trial. Mr. Wheeler made out the best case possible for indictments which have been thrown down by several federal judges, among them one before which Senator Borah of Idaho was tried and freed, but the indictment would not hold water before Judge Quarles. The government may take an appeal, but this will not be determined until the decision of Judge Quarles has been considered by the department of justice in Washington.

PLAN NOTIFICATION OF CANDIDATE KERN

Indianapolis Prepares to see one of Her Sons Notified of His Honors.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 21.—Next week, for the fourth time in her history, Indianapolis will see one of her sons notified of his nomination for the vice presidency of the United States. The citizens, irrespective of political affiliations, are preparing to make the event a notable one. Democratic leaders from all parts of the country will be here and delegations of the rank and file will be on hand from Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Louisville and other cities. The notification ceremonies will take place at the Kern home and probably will be preceded by a parade. A plan is being discussed to have Mr. Bryan and Mr. Kern hold a public reception in Tenthman hall in the evening, similar to that held by Benjamin Harrison and Levi P. Morton after their nomination in 1888. The presence of Mr. Bryan is expected to attract to the city one of the largest crowds seen here in a long time.

OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY OF LINCOLN-DOUGLAS DEBATE

Illinois Historical Society Plans Big Celebration Of Historic Events.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Springfield, Ill., Aug. 21.—Beginning today, and continuing until the middle of October, Illinois will live over again the days of the historic Lincoln-Douglas debates. It is the golden anniversary of the celebrated contest, and the Illinois Historical Society has planned celebrations in each of the cities where the debates were held. There was but seven of these noted debates, all occurring in 1858, the places and dates being as follows: Ottawa, Aug. 21; Freeport, Aug. 27; Jonesboro, Sept. 15; Charleston, Sept. 18; Galesburg, Oct. 17; Quincy, Oct. 18, and Alton, Oct. 18. At the initial celebration of the series at Ottawa today the event is to be commemorated by the placing of a huge granite boulder on the site where the original debate took place. The scheduled speakers include former Senator William E. Mason, J. Hamilton Lewis of Chicago, Congressman George Edmund Foss and others of prominence. Other notable celebrations of the series will be those at Freeport and Quincy. The speakers at the Freeport celebration will be Senator Doolittle of Iowa, Colonel W. T. Davidson and Congressman Frank O. Lowden. The site of the debate in Freeport already is marked by a suitable memorial erected by the Freeport Woman's Club and dedicated by President Roosevelt in 1907. It was at Freeport that Lincoln submitted his famous question No. 2 to Douglas, namely: "Can the people of a United States territory in any lawful way, against the wishes of any citizen of the United States, exclude slavery from its limits prior to the formation of a state constitution?" To which Douglas replied: "It matters not what the Supreme court may hereafter decide as to the abstract question whether slavery may or may not go into a territory under the constitution. The people have the lawful means to introduce or exclude it as they please, for the reason that slavery cannot exist a day or an hour anywhere unless it is supported by local police regulations." At Quincy the plans for the anniversary celebration are being made on an elaborate scale. A local organization has been formed under the name of the Lincoln-Douglas Semi-centennial society to conduct the celebration. The site of the debate in Quincy was marked with a memorial boulder some two years ago. A number of people are still living in Quincy who heard the great debate and they will be among the prominent participants in the anniversary celebration. It was in Quincy that Carl Schurz and Thomas Nast, the cartoonist, first met Lincoln, and each of these notable men has left recollections of the meeting. At Jonesboro, where the debate was held September 15, on the fair grounds, arrangements are being made for a suitable celebration of the semi-centennial. Most of those who heard the debate at Jonesboro were participants of Douglas and Beckenridge. At Galesburg, where the debate was held October 17, the anniversary has been observed several times in recent years, and the semi-centennial will be celebrated on an elaborate scale. The debate in Galesburg took place in front of the old college, and the building is adorned with a Lincoln-Douglas memorial tablet which was unveiled at the celebration in 1895. At Alton, where the last of the series of debates was held, the celebration will take place October 18. From Quincy to Alton the two intellectual giants traveled on the same boat. The speakers' stand in Alton was located on the east side of what was then the new city hall, which is still standing and used for the same purposes. The programme for the Alton celebration will include a homecoming feature and will extend over several days.

SHERMAN SAYS THAT HUGHES IS THE MAN

Vice-Presidential Candidate Makes This Statement in New York This Morning.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Aug. 21.—Sherman, the republican candidate for vice-president today announced that yesterday's conference with Roosevelt developed that the consensus of opinion was favorable to the nomination of Governor Hughes to succeed himself. The statement by Sherman will unquestionably put an end to the organized opposition to Gov. Hughes.

BRYAN'S QUESTION ANSWERED BY TAFT

Says That the People Have Ruled Through the Republican Party.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 21.—"The people have ruled through the Republican party," this is William H. Taft's answer to Bryan's challenge, "Shall the people rule?" The answer was made in an address by Taft made today before a gathering of several thousand Virginia republicans to celebrate "Virginia Day." The scene at the hall park was typical of a county picnic. The speech was heartily applauded.

STANDARD OIL CASE WAS APPEALED TODAY

Government Takes Appeal from Finding of the Fifth Circuit Court on Land Decision.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Ill., Aug. 21.—The government petition for a rehearing by the United States court of appeals of the case against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, was filed today. It represents, it is authoritatively stated, the administration's attempt to save the Elkins act and the interstate commerce law from growing futile. The filing of the petition was especially marked by the appearance of Attorney General Bonaparte in the case. Although it is not specifically stated in the petition, it was agreed by the counsel for the government following the reversal by the appeal to the court of Judge Landis' decision, in which a $29,240,000 fine was imposed, that if the interpretation of the law as given by Judges Grosscup, Seaman and Laker were allowed to stand, to successfully prosecute and prove the cases against the corporations would be impossible in the future.

PICKPOCKETS WORK THROUGH THE CROWD

Secured Four Hundred Dollars from Persons Waiting on Platform at Mineral Point.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Mineral Point, Wis., Aug. 21.—Pickpockets, thought to be members of the St. Paul gang that worked the crowd at the St. Paul depot in Janesville on Wednesday, secured four hundred dollars in cash from the pockets of persons waiting on the depot platform for trains after the fair yesterday. No clues have been obtained. Choir Went up River: Forty people who composed the St. Paul's German Lutheran church choir and their friends enjoyed a picnic up the river yesterday at Idlewild park. The day was spent in games and a picnic dinner was served.

MADISON PEOPLE WANT INTERURBAN

FORTY THOUSAND CLUB TALK WITH ENGINEER ELLIS AND ATTORNEY SUTHERLAND.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

Madison Businessmen Say They Will Take Off Their Coats to Work for the Proposed Road.

That the Madison people will offer every encouragement and assistance to facilitate the building of the interurban line from Janesville, proposed by the Cincinnati Construction Company, is evident. This was shown clearly at a meeting yesterday afternoon between representatives of the company and a number of the leading representative businessmen of Madison, who were summoned at a special meeting of the Forty Thousand Club, the organization of boosting businessmen of the Capital City.

Nor is great opposition feared from the local traction company, in spite of a recent declaration by a son of the president of the company, to the effect that they would fight an interurban. President F. W. Montgomery of the Southern Wisconsin Railroad Co. declared that he would welcome the coming of an interurban line and would be glad to allow the use of his tracks to enter the city on reasonable terms.

The Madison Democrat today had the following to say relative to the special meeting of the Forty Thousand Club:

"We want an interurban road as soon as possible."
"This statement was made by a number of leading businessmen at a special meeting of the Forty Thousand Club yesterday afternoon. The meeting was called by President T. G. Murray, at the request of Joseph Ellis, engineer of the Cincinnati Construction Company, which is contemplating the building of an electric road from Janesville to Madison. Mr. Ellis and George G. Sutherland of Janesville, attorney for the company, arrived in the city at noon and left immediately after the meeting.

Seek Best Entry Route
"Mr. Ellis requested that the meeting be called for the purpose of receiving suggestions as to the best route into the city. He said the route had been surveyed from Janesville as far as the southwestern corner of Lake Waubesa and that he had not yet been determined whether to enter the city from the east end or by way of South Madison.

"It was suggested that it would probably be better for the company to enter by the way of South Madison as an electric line from Watertown to Madison would certainly be built within a year or two.

"Colonel A. H. Hollister said that the company should take into consideration the fact that by coming in through South Madison its line can pass the fair grounds, Monona Lake and the aquarium.

"These three institutions would be great factors for your interurban business," he said.

"President Murray and Secretary Birch will work day and night for you and we will stand back of them," declared Colonel Hollister. "We will take off our coats and help you all we can."

"Mr. Ellis said that he will survey a route from the southwestern corner of Lake Waubesa into Madison and that he will be ready to meet with the Forty Thousand Club again in about 10 days.

"We will endeavor to secure the right of way along the proposed route before we ask the railroad commission for the necessary certificate of public convenience and necessity," said Mr. Ellis. "We want to go before the commission with clean skirts."

WRITES ARTICLE ON PHILIPPINE MANIOC

Edwin B. Copeland, Formerly of Monroe, Has Article in Philippine Agricultural Review.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Monroe, Wis., Aug. 21.—Edwin B. Copeland, formerly of Monroe and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, is the author of a scientific article on manioc, a great tropical plant grown in the Philippines and other warm countries, in the last issue of the Philippine Agricultural Review. Mr. Copeland has been in the Philippines several years and is connected with the botanical department of the United States government. He predicts a great future in the starch industry in the islands through the growing of manioc, which makes cheaper and better starch than does the potato.

Secretary L. C. White, of the Green County Fair association, said today after a trip through northern Illinois, that the coming fair here, Sept. 9 to 12, will have a greater attendance from out of town than ever before. Mr. White has visited over twenty-five cities in southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois. Four special trains will be run into Monroe for the fair. One will be from Warren, Ill., two from New Glarus and Brodhead and one from Beloit and Janesville.

WILL BEGIN ON CORN BY WEDNESDAY NEXT

Canning Factory to Start Then if Weather Conditions Are Right.

The J. Holmstedt, Jr., canning factory expect to start to work on the corn crop about next Wednesday if the weather conditions are right for the corn to be cut. This will keep them busy until October, when they will commence on cabbages. They received a carload of peaches from the North yesterday and expect another today, as about five carloads a week are coming in at the present time.

The Choate-Hollister Furniture company are working a small force ten hours a day and six days in the week, and will enlarge the number as they need the men.

The Janesville Cement Shingle company report having secured the contract for the sand used by the United States Gypsum company in their Chicago mill. They already have one for the sand used at the Milwaukee mill.

The Hough Shingle Corporation are working a small force at present, most of the employees being away on their vacations. Those that are working are getting out their sample line of shingles.

The Rock County Concrete Stone company are working on the concrete for blocks, which keeps them busy all of the time.

PROFESSOR KEHL HAS RETURNED FROM TRIP

Dancing Master Who Has Classes in Janesville During the Winter Was Much Honored.

Prof. J. W. Kehl, who has dancing classes in Janesville during the winter, has just reached Madison, his home, after an interesting trip to Berlin, Germany, where he attended the initiation meeting of the International Association of dancing masters.

He was one of three delegates chosen by the American National Association of Dancing Masters to represent this country. Organization of the international association was perfected and Prof. Kehl was highly honored by being elected secretary. The other two delegates were Louis Krotzow of Chicago and R. C. Grant of New York.

On the afternoon of the opening day, July 20, the different countries were called upon to present their national dances. America was honored by being called first and Prof. Kehl was asked to take the floor. He demonstrated the American two-step in the presence of 512 dancing teachers.

"The president of the association thought that America was well represented and that it should be the first country to present its national dance," said Prof. Kehl last night. He said: "Mr. Kehl of Madison, Wisconsin, please take the floor." I considered it a great honor. After I finished, England was called upon, then France, Norway, Holland and the various other countries which were represented at the meeting.

The total attendance was 614.

Taught American Dances.
Normal schools, where dancing teachers are given further instruction, are held in Berlin every year. They last two weeks and some of the ablest dancing masters of Germany give lessons. During the sessions of the school last month Prof. Kehl taught American dances.

The place for the next annual meeting of the international association will be determined by the executive committee. Either Germany or France will be selected.

"It is possible that America will get the convention in 1910," declared Prof. Kehl. "There are four different associations of dancing masters in this country. It will be my duty to meet the presidents and get them interested in the international association. It will be to their advantage to belong to this organization."

Prof. Kehl left Madison June 20. Besides Berlin, he visited Mainz, Cologne, Hamburg and Frankfurt, and Thuringen, his old home. Kaiser Wilhelm was on a cruise on the Mediterranean and consequently Prof. Kehl did not get a glimpse at the ruler of the fatherland. Prof. Kehl enjoyed the trip immensely.

MISS FISHER WAS GUEST OF HONOR

At Miscellaneous Shower Given Last Evening at the Home of Miss May Clark.

Last evening at the home of Miss May Clark on Sinclair street Miss May Fisher was the recipient of a miscellaneous shower given in honor of her approaching marriage to Mr. Samuel H. Davis of Minneapolis. Miss May Clark, Louise and Clara Hanson and Mabel Brown were the hostesses of the occasion.

The decorations were all heart-shaped and the gifts were wrapped in heart-shaped paper in the shape of hearts. Miss Clara Hanson gave a toast on "The Bride-to-be, How to Manage a Husband," which was responded to by Mrs. Martin Hanson, and Mrs. Arthur Fisher responded to the toast, "Five Years a Bride."

CURIOSITY.

Leads to investigation and Truth.
What shall we do to be saved? was the question of a group of people of no faith flocking to hear L. Thomsen asking, "What shall I do to get rid of dandruff?" The answer is, "kill the germ that causes the dandruff, falling hair and finally baldness; and the only thing that will do it is Newbro's Herpicide. That is the very latest discovery of the laboratory, and it is the only preparation that claims to, or that will, kill the pestiferous dandruff germ. It also is a delightful hair-dressing, free from oil or grease or sticky substances. Try it and be convinced of its actual merit. Sold by leading druggists. ## IMPORTANT CHANGES IN FOOTBALL RULES

Forward Pass Rule Changed—Play More Difficult and New Penalties Are Fixed.

Janesville enthusiasts and football players will be interested to know of the changes made in the rules of the gridiron game for this coming season. The changes that have been made are not as many as in previous years but they are important.

A change in the forward pass rule which will likely have a decided bearing on the game has been made. When a forward pass is legally touched only the man of the passer's side who first touched it shall be entitled to recover the ball until it is touched by an opponent.

If a forward pass is thus legally touched by another player of the passer's side before the ball is touched by an opponent the ball shall go to the opponents on the side where it was illegally touched.

Much Danger in Pass.
This rule will make it more dangerous for the side in possession of the ball to try for a forward pass. If a man misses the ball it practically means that the other side will get the play. The forward pass will therefore probably not be used so much this season.

While the ball is in the air for a forward pass, players on the defensive side may not use their arms or hands on opponents except to push them out of the way in order to get the ball themselves. Players of the side making the pass who are incapable to receive the pass may use their hands and arms as in the case of players going down the field under a kick.

Neither side may, however, "hold" or "tackle" an opponent who has not the ball. If the ball is illegally touched outside of these provisions named the penalty shall be that the ball will go to the opponents on the spot where the pass was made.

This will be taken out during the enforcement of a penalty for incomplete pass. If a ball on a forward pass or kick strikes the uprights of the cross bar of the goal posts the ball shall be considered as having crossed the goal line.

In case the ball accidentally strikes an official the play shall be played over again. A change which appears to be somewhat unneeded for is the lengthening of the intermission between halves from ten minutes to fifteen minutes. The referee must notify the teams three minutes before its expiration.

New Penalties Provided.
Five minutes after this notification if either team has failed to appear the ball shall be put in play on the first down by the offended side on the offending side's thirty-yard line.

In order to render the rules and regulations more consistent the rules which govern the conduct of players and referees not in the game, which in some instances differ from the general line, are made to read: "Fines of fifteen yards, point to be gained and number of downs to remain unchanged." Penalties for fouls may be refused by the offending side except penalties under the forward pass.

This, however, in cases where the penalty includes disqualification, does not save the player from being put out of the game. If a player bats the ball forward his side loses the play. This comes under the jurisdiction of the referee and field judge. The field judge also is the timekeeper in place of the head linesman. The score of a forfeited game shall be 0 to 0. This distinguishes it from all other possible scores.

STATE ISSUES THE BLANKS

Season for Ducks and Partridges on September 1—Other Dates Announced.

In less than two weeks Janesville hunters will again demonstrate their skill, when the season opens for rabbit, squirrel, snipe, duck and wild goose. The office of County Clerk Lee is visited daily by men, who go to take out licenses and pay the fee of $1 for the privilege.

The state game warden's office at Madison has been busy during the past few weeks mailing out license blanks to all the county clerks of the state. It is estimated that 10,000 blanks have been mailed out. From the number of licenses taken out the indications are there will be plenty of hunters this season.

No Material Changes
In the game laws for this season and the following synopsis will keep the hunters in touch with the conditions and apply largely to the northern localities which are visited frequently by hunters from this county:

Doe—November 10 to November 30, succeeding.

Habit—Sept. 1 to March 1, succeeding.

Raccoon—Oct. 1 to Jan. 1, succeeding.

Squirrel—Sept. 1 to March 1, succeeding.

Partridge—Sept. 1 to Dec. 1, succeeding.

Quail—Protected at all times.

Snipe—Sept. 1 to Dec. 1, succeeding.

Woodcock—Sept. 1 to Dec. 1, succeeding.

Ducks of all varieties including coot or mud hen—Sept. 1 to Jan. 1, succeeding.

Ball or rice hen—Sept. 1 to Jan. 1, succeeding.

Black bass (large or small mouth)—June 10 to March 1, succeeding.

Trout, green, silver, rock and white—May 25 to March 1, succeeding.

Pike—May 25 to March 1, succeeding.

Muskellunge—May 25 to March 1, succeeding.

Law of Hunting
Any resident or non-resident of this state, who shall pursue, hunt, kill or trap any of the birds, fowls, or animals protected by the laws of this state, without being at the time of such pursuing, hunting or killing in possession of a license duly issued to him, which license shall cover the period in which he shall be so pursuing, hunting or killing such game, or who shall furnish to another person during the open season for such game or permit such other person to have during the said open season a license issued to him, shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars or be imprisoned in the county jail not less than one month or more than six months or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Link and Pin FOUR BAD WRECKS ON ST. PAUL ROAD

Madison and Its Immediate Vicinity Are the Scenes of Peculiar Accidents.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Aug. 21.—Within 12 hours from Wednesday night to Thursday noon, three wrecks occurred on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road in and near Madison, and one wreck occurred in Milwaukee.

The Portage passenger train was derailed Wednesday night, injuring the engineer, Robert Grace, and badly shaking some 50 passengers. Next morning at Sun Prairie the Milwaukee passenger was derailed but no one was more than slightly hurt, owing to the coolness and bravery of Engineer Crawford S. Wilbur, who stuck to his post and applied the brakes after the engine and baggage car rolled over into a ditch, but the engineer was the only one hurt, and he not seriously.

HOW TO HANDLE THE CORN CROP ECONOMICALLY

THE speedy harvesting of the corn crop is just as important as speedy harvesting of small grains.

Slow, expensive hand work and waste through improper handling cause many a farmer to lose fully half his corn profits.

There is a right moment for cutting and shocking corn. When cut just as the ears begin to glaze, you preserve the sweet nutritious juices in stalks and blades which make the fodder a prime growing and fattening feed. When shredded it is practically as good as timothy hay.

A delay of a day or two causes the palatable, nutritious fodder to turn into tasteless, worthless woody fibre.

Right here comes the unanswerable argument for cutting and blinding the crop with a Deering, McCormick, Milwaukee or Osborne corn blinder, and deposit them in piles ready for shocking. It means millions in profits saved to corn growers every year.

You then make sure of having your corn safely harvested within the very limited time in which the work must be done to get the full value from it.

A machine of this kind will harvest all the corn, whether tall, short or tangled. And it does the work in double quick time.

The work goes right along. You can cut and bind as fast as your team can walk. You not only harvest your corn when it is in the pink of condition, but you make a great saving of labor and wages.

Then comes, in due time, the shredding of the fodder. Fodder must be shredded to get the full value from it.

The Deering, McCormick, and Plano huskers and shredders not only husk the corn clean and with least possible shelling, but they shred and reduce stalks, blades, pith and husks into a condition so that it is relished and eaten up clean by all classes of animals.

This shredded stover is not a mere filler. It has a high feeding value, rich in protein, starch and sugar. It is proven by analysis and experiment to have two-thirds the feeding value of an ear of corn.

When shredded with Deering, McCormick and Plano machines, the fodder is all digestible and ranks along with clover, timothy and alfalfa as a sustaining ration for growing and fattening feed.

SIGNS AND SYMPTOMS

Some people never see signs put up for the guidance of the general public. Others never read symptoms until a fully developed case is upon them. The skilled mariner reads the coming squall on the surface of the water before it reaches him. He also knows when the storm is beginning to break, and can read well in advance the approach of fair weather. In the business world, the stock market is the most forehanded reader of the signs and symptoms of the return of better times. It has been preaching this gospel for some months, not in a secret way, but openly, with a clearly expressed faith in a near future of better days.

But when those better times come there will be a difference. Since property was lost with us many observed and unobserved changes have taken place. Among other things there has been a sifting of projects and of policies, of men and of measures under the sobering shades of depression. When business rises to its old-time height, it will be more normal, there will be less risk involved, fewer paper schemes, and more paying projects worthy of popular confidence.

AFTER THE ELECTION

The number of things which people are relegating to "after the election" shows how much the plans for the future depend on which side of the fence the cat jumps. It is next to impossible to get any great project considered finally this side of the day of election. That event is a final proviso in almost everything of primary importance relating not only to the remainder of the calendar year, but also to the years beyond.

Among the things that are scheduled for after the election treatment are such as the revision of the tariff, the readjustment of railway rates and any revision of wages which may then be deemed necessary to meet the conditions of the market supply and demand. There is no doubt that but for the intervening presidential election the question of wages would be treated much more freely and fearlessly than has thus far been the case.

Unquestionably, there is wisdom in this policy of not having too many public questions on the program at one time. With the state and federal elections out of the way and a short session of congress ahead, the business situation can be dealt with more strictly on its merits than if business matters were complicated with political issues. Simultaneous treatment of business and political questions is apt to result in the muddling of both of them to such an extent as to make the last stage of the case worse than the first.

THE OVERSHADOWING ISSUE

Mr. Bryan says that the overwhelming issue of the campaign is "shall the people rule?" Mr. Sherman, the candidate for vice-president on the republican ticket, says that the overshadowing issue really is "shall the administration of President Roosevelt be approved?" Both are wrong. The question is not whether the people shall rule, because the people do rule and have ruled on every great question that is before the country. There has never been a time in the history of this country when public opinion, once it had clearly expressed itself, did not control. The question is not, shall the administration of President Roosevelt be approved, issues in this country do not relate to the past, but to the future. Undoubtedly a majority of the American people do approve of President Roosevelt's administration, but they do not want an election to turn upon that. The issue of the campaign relates to what is to be done the next four years and not what has been done in the last four years.

The overshadowing issue is, "shall we have national progress without either reaction in reform or the destruction of business?"

SENATOR STEPHENSON

The visit of United States Senator Isaac Stephenson to Janesville today is a special honor to the community in which he worked as a youth sixty-two years ago. He comes as the junior United States Senator to view the scenes of his early endeavors and meet his friends both of the old days and of the new.

This evening at the office of the Myers hotel he will be glad to meet all who care to come and pay honor to the state of Wisconsin's representative in the Senate of the United States. He is not here for a conference with any political lieutenant, but to meet and visit with the citizens. This afternoon he spent some hours in Beloit, returning to Janesville in time for supper. All are invited to meet the Senator and the committee having charge of his reception have arranged it at an hour when those working during the day can find it convenient to be present.

Rock county will certainly give Thos. S. Nolan an astonishingly large vote if present indications can point to anything. Mr. Nolan has many friends who would like to see him honored by the nomination and they will support him earnestly at the polls on primary day.

Factionalism has apparently ceased to exist in Rock county and the republican party is again united. Factional fights are always to be deplored and the republicans of Rock county are congratulated on having brought peace out of the discord of the past few years.

Mr. Jack Gardner of Boston is certainly securing some free advertising who did not expect when she persuaded her friend from Chicago to import valuable under the guise of household furniture.

LIABILITIES HEAVY ASSETS ARE SMALL

Cassius M. Paine of Beloit Files His Case With Referee In Bankruptcy.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 21.—With debts of $112,000 and only $5,000 of assets, Cassius M. Paine of Beloit yesterday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court for the western district of Wisconsin, asking to be relieved of his tremendous burden of obligations. Most of the debts appear from the schedule to be notes given to banks and commercial establishments and also accounts owing for goods received.

SPRINGFIELD STIRRED TO FURY.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 21.—Springfield was inflamed Thursday night by a report that Rolla Keys, a 17-year-old boy who testified before the special grand jury when that body indicted George Richardson for an alleged assault upon Mrs. Mabel Hallam, had been shot by friends of the accused negro.

FORMER RESIDENT SHOT IN LOUISIANA

James H. Skelly Killed at Millikan Station, Louisiana, Particulars Not Known.

Mrs. Mary Conroy last evening received a letter from Lake Providence, Louisiana, announcing the death of her brother, James H. Skelly. The letter came from a railroad contractor for whom Mr. Skelly was working and announced that he had been shot at Millikan station, twenty miles from Lake Providence, where the writer was, and that the body had been buried.

The writer did not know the particulars of Mr. Skelly's death but said he would send further details as soon as he could procure them.

Mr. E. J. Schmidley has sent word to H. A. Hodges, the contractor in charge of the railroad work on which Mr. Skelly was employed, asking him to disinter the remains and ship to Janesville if possible.

The deceased was unmarried and about 52 years old. He was born in this city and had always lived here until about fourteen years ago when he first began to work for Mr. Hodges in the south. He was a bookkeeper and time keeper.

Besides Mrs. Mary Conroy two other sisters are left. They are Mrs. E. J. Schmidley and Mrs. John McGee.

Asleep at the Switch: The schedule on the street railway was thrown out yesterday afternoon so that there was no car went down Main street, leaving the Myers house corner at twenty minutes past two. The motorman running up to the cemetery at two o'clock utilized the few minutes that they step there for a nap and being somewhat weary from late hours the night before slept longer than he intended to.

THE FALL OF MR. ZIEGLER.

Herman Ziegler, of New York city celebrated his thirty-fifth birthday one day recently by exercising his wife. He chased her, as was his frequent wont, with the butcher knife.

Albert Mrs. Ziegler seems to have entered into the spirit of the festivities, she dutifully cowered around the table and over the chairs to make a holiday for Mr. Ziegler until she grew weary of the play. Then she escaped and ran to the neighbors.

The man of the house rested from his labors on the back porch, reciting the story of the domestic circus he had made and loudly telling what the programme would be when Mrs. Ziegler returned.

In the parlor of the street, that was where Mr. Ziegler lost out. Mrs. Ziegler returned. She brought with her twelve other women. Note the total number—thirteen. These merry wives seized Mr. Ziegler even while he gloated. They bound him to a chair and joined hands in a circle about him. The circus programme was to go on, but with a changed bill.

While the twelve made a joyful noise, as became the festive day, Mrs. Ziegler interrupted Mr. Ziegler with a section of the garden hose until he, too, joined in the glad scream, though discordantly. Then the sisters of the mystic circle helped Mr. Ziegler to his painful bed.

Various atonal teachings might be drawn from this veracious story of the fall of Mr. Ziegler.

For instance: Every man should learn the lesson that the race is not always to the swift nor the battle to the strong; also that pride goeth before a fall.

Every man must be shaped by untoward events into something decent. It is the misfortune of Ziegler that he did not learn this until he was thirty-five. He had a bad fall coming to him. It was long overdue.

So Mr. Ziegler had to learn through experience and a sound beating that wife chasing, pursued either as a wretched business or as a pure recreation, is detrimental to the chaser as well as the chased.

Mr. Ziegler did not learn this lesson in his puppy age, the proper age for bumping wisdom in and beating failures out, but it may be said—

While it is sometimes difficult to teach an old dog tricks, it may be done.

CATCHER BUSHONG DIES IN BROOKLYN

Former Ball Player Who Caught for the Famous Janesville Mutuals in 1877, Died Yesterday.

This morning's papers announced the death of Albert Bushong, who in 1877 was catcher for the famous Janesville Mutuals and later caught for the St. Louis Browns and Brooklyn teams when they won the national championships. Albert Bushong is well remembered by the old-timers in Janesville. Frank L. Smith, who was prominent in the development of the Mutuals in '77, found Bushong working on a farm in Illinois and brought him to Janesville. He played with the famous Janesville team during that year, meeting such teams as St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Syracuse, Manchester, N. H., Milwaukee and Memphis, Tenn. Bushong left Janesville the next year and played with the Buffalo, Utica, Worcester and Cleveland teams and then went to St. Louis and finally to Brooklyn. He retired from the game in 1890 and has practiced dentistry in Brooklyn since. Old-timers speak with pleasure of the manner in which Bushong used to play without gloves or mask and his throwing to bases. He was one of the wonders of the baseball world in the 'Eighties and ranked with the best catchers in the business.

WERE BROUGHT UP IN COURT TODAY

Sheriff Fisher Brings Three Subscription Agents Back Today.

Russell Yeager, Bert Adams and Charles Scott, who were arrested in Chicago Wednesday through a telegram sent from here by the chief of police, were brought back by Sheriff Fisher this morning and were in the municipal court this afternoon. They claimed that they were not attempting to shy out with the money collected by them and no attempt was made this afternoon between them and the agents of the Orange Judd Farmer to settle their accounts. The case was called before Judge Field this afternoon at three o'clock.

In the case of Charles Scott, the prosecution was dropped and the case of the other two men, Russell Yeager and Bert Adams, was adjourned until the 31st and they were let go on their own recognizance.

Game Warden Peter Drafiak also served out a warrant against a man by the name of Shannon for illegal fishing. The case came up this afternoon but sentence was suspended on good behavior.

A warrant has also been asked for by a state milk inspector against a milk dealer in the town of Avon.

Philosophy of Possession. For myself I am certain that the good of human life cannot lie in the possession of things which for one man to possess is for the rest to lose, but rather in things which all can possess alike, and where one man's wealth promotes his neighbor's.

Benedict Spinoza.

C. H. Weirick for Register of Deeds. The services of a man with six years' experience in this important office ought to be valuable to every taxpayer in Rock County.

If you believe this to be true, I respectfully solicit your support for re-nomination at the September Primary election.

I wish to thank all those who have so generously aided me, and to say further that my official duties prevent my making a personal canvass of the voters, which I deeply regret.

CONGO TREATY IS ADOPTED AT LAST

FREE STATE WILL BE ANNEXED TO BELGIUM SOON.

BITTER STRUGGLE CLOSES

Atrocities and Maladministration in King Leopold's African Realm Now Probably Will Come to an End.

Brussels, Aug. 21.—After several months of bitter struggle, the chamber of deputies Thursday adopted the Congo annexation treaty by 83 votes to 56, and although this action probably will insure the solution of the great Congo problem, there still remains open the important question of Belgium's financial responsibility.

This action on the part of the chamber had not been expected and at the last moment nearly caused the collapse of the cabinet. During the first reading recently of the colonial bill, which provides for the administration of the Congo independent state, and which, with the treaty, was adopted Thursday, M. de Weert, leader of the right, secured the adoption of an amendment relieving Belgium of the responsibility of guaranteeing the payment of the interest on the Congo debt, but the government made a determined effort to secure the restoration of the stipulation that Belgium would make advances to Congo in case of necessity. The government was defeated in this, however, and it was generally believed that the ministers would be forced to resign.

Treaty and Bill Conflict.

At the conclusion of a long meeting of King Leopold and the members of his cabinet it was announced that the ministry would not resign, the government temporarily accepting the chamber's action on the financial question. It was pointed out, however, that a direct contradiction exists between the treaty and the colonial bill as voted, the treaty shouldering the financial responsibility while the bill rejects it.

It is understood that the government will make an effort in the senate to amend the bill so as to reconcile the provisions of the two. Among the important modifications of the original articles of the bill are the abolition of forced labor and the prohibition of members of the Belgian parliament from exploiting Congo concessions.

Annexation is Assured.

The passage of the Congo treaty means that the annexation of the state to Belgium is now practically assured, as the senate and King Leopold are ready to endorse the bill. The personal rule of King Leopold in Africa is now drawing to a close—in the future he will have nothing to do with the state which is to be administered by Belgium—and the hope is widespread that there will now be an end to the atrocities and maladministration in this part of the world which, for years past, has been a subject of investigation and bitter complaint by humanitarians all over the world.

Governments became deeply interested in bringing about the introduction of reforms in the Congo and it became known last year that Great Britain and the United States had almost decided to interfere in the Congo administration unless the situation there improved.

TO WED TEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL.

Virginia Clergyman's Plan to Make Child His Heiress.

Billicott City, Md., Aug. 21.—A license was issued Thursday for the marriage of Rev. George Fitzhugh, aged 67 years, to Lulu V. Frazier, ten years old.

The proposed marriage has not yet taken place. Mr. Fitzhugh suffered a severe attack of heart disease after obtaining the license, and he is now said to be critically ill. He is understood to be an Episcopal clergyman of Virginia, of which state the little girl is also a native. When the license was secured a necessary letter of consent from the girl's mother was exhibited to the clerk. The explanation of the peculiar case is said to be that Mr. Fitzhugh desires to make little Miss Frazier his heiress and that his object cannot be attained to his satisfaction by the adoption of the child.

Iowa Hibernians Choose Officers.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

THE spring floods delayed the eastern express, bringing the party to Chicago nearly a day late. The Cables and the Harbison went at once to the Annex, where David Cable had taken rooms. They had given up their north side home some months before, both he and his wife retiring into the seclusion that a great hotel can afford when necessary.

Graydon hurried off to his father's office, eager, yet half fearful, to meet the man who was responsible for the broken link in his life—this odd year. He recalled as he drove across town that a full year had elapsed since he spent that unforgettable night in Elias Droom's room, no more, was he never to forget that night when his soul seemed even more squallid than the home of the refugees?

All of his baggage except a suit case had been left at the station. He did not know what had become of his belongings in the former home of his father, nor, for that matter, did he care. At the U—building he ventured a diffident greeting to the elevator boy, whom he remembered. The boy looked at him quizzically and nodded with customary aloofness. Graydon found himself hoping that he would not meet Bobby Rigby. He also wondered as the car whirled up how his father had managed to escape from the meshes that were drawn about him on the eve of his departure. His clothes had looked black and hopeless enough then, yet he still maintained the same old offices in the building. His name was on the directory board downstairs. Graydon's heart gave a quick bound with the thought that his father had proved the charges false after all.

Elias Droom was busy directing the labors of two abled men and a charwoman, all of whom were telling as they had never told before. The woman was dusting law books, and the men were packing them away in boxes. The front room of the suit was in a state of devastation. A dozen boxes stood about the floor; rugs and furniture were huddled in the most remote corner awaiting the arrival of the "secondhand man"; the floor was littered with paper. Droom was directing operations with a broken umbrella. It seemed like a lash to the tollers.

"Now let's get through with this room," he was saying in his most impelling way. "The men will be here for the boxes at 4. I don't want 'em to wait. This back room stuff we'll put in the trunks. Look out there! Don't you see that mat?"

Eddie Deever, with his usual indifference, was seated upon the edge of the writing table in the corner, smoking his cigarette and commenting with rash freedom upon the efforts of the perspiring slaves.

"How long are you going to keep these things in the warehouse?" he asked of Droom.

"I'm not going to keep them there at all. They belong to Mr. Harbison. He'll take them out when he has the time."

"He's getting all the time he wants now, I guess," commented Eddie. "Say, talking about time, I'll be twenty-one next Tuesday."

"Old enough to marry."

"I don't know about that. I'm get-

Comparisons Are Odious!

And yet it seems necessary for us to make them.

How can we induce you to try P. & G. Naphtha Soap unless we can make you realize that it is better than the soap you are now using?

And how can we do that unless we make comparisons?

And so, whether we like it or not, we must say and we must keep on saying:

P. & G. Naphtha Soap is better than any other naphtha soap.

It is better than ANY laundry soap.

It saves time, trouble, fuel and money.

It makes clothes cleaner, sweeter, brighter, whiter than any other soap, no matter "where its name or what its name."

ting pretty wife. Do you know, I've just found out how old Rosie Keating is. She's twenty-nine. Gee, it's funny how a fellow always gets stuck on a girl older than himself. Still, she's all right. I'm not saying a word against her. She wouldn't be twenty-nine if she could help it."

"I suppose it's off between you, then."

"I don't know about that either. We lunched at Hector's today. That don't look like it's off, does it? Four sixty-five, including the tip. She don't look twenty-nine, does she?"

"I've never noticed her."

"Never! Well, hilly mackerel! You must be blind then. She says she's seen you in the elevator a thousand times. Never noticed her? Gee?"

"I mean I've never noticed any one who looked less than twenty-nine. By the way, do you ever see Mr. Rigby? I believe she is in his office."

"I don't go to Rigby's any more," said Eddie, with sudden stiffness. "He's a cheap skate."

"I heard he threw you out of the office one day," with a dry chuckle.

"He did not! We couldn't agree in certain things regarding the Harbison affair, that's all. I told him to go to the devil, or words to that effect."

"Something looks about your teeth, money, I believe, wasn't there?"

"Oh, the whole thing doesn't amount to a whoop. I'm trying to get Rosie another job. She oughtn't to write in there with that guy."

"Well, you're twenty-one. Why don't you open an office of your own? Your mother's got plenty of money. She can buy you a library and a sign, and that is all a young lawyer needs in Chicago."

"Mother wants me to run for alderman in our ward next spring. I'll be able to vote at that election."

"You've got as much right in the council as some others, I suppose."

"Sure. Mother owns property. The west side ought to be as well represented as the north side. Property interests is what we need in the council. That's—"

"I don't care to hear a political speech, boy. Are you busy this afternoon?"

"No, I wouldn't be here if I was."

"Then get up there and hand those books down to me. Nobody loafs in this office today."

"Well, doggone, if that isn't the limit! All right. Don't get mad. I'll do it."

The young gentleman leisurely ascended to the top of the steepladder and fell into line under the load.

"Young Mr. Graydon Harbison will be here this afternoon," said Droom. "I want to get things cleaned up a bit beforehand."

"How does he feel about his father?"

"He doesn't know about him, I'm afraid."

"Well, it'll jar him a bit, won't it?"

The office door was opened suddenly, and a tall young man strode into the room, only to stop again at the sight before him. Droom's hunk figure swayed uncertainly and his eyes wavered.

"What's all this?" cried Graydon, dropping his bag and coming toward the old man, his hand outstretched. Droom's clammy fingers rested lifelessly in the warm clasp.

"How are you, Graydon? I'm—I'm very glad to see you. You are looking well. Oh, this? We—we are moving," said the old man. The helpers looked on with interest. "Come into the back office. It isn't so torn up. I didn't expect you so soon. They said it was twenty-four hours late. Well, well, how are you, my boy?"

"I'm quite well again, Elias. Hard steps of it, I tell you. Moving, eh? What's that for?"

"Never mind those books," Eddie. Thank you for helping me. Come in some other time. You fellows—I mean you—pack the rest of these, and then I'll tell you what to do next. Come in, Graydon."

Eddie Deever took his departure, deeply insulted because he had not been introduced to the newcomer. Graydon, somewhat bewildered, followed Droom into his father's consulting room. He looked around inquiringly.

"Where is father? I telegraphed to him."

An incomprehensible grin came into Droom's face. He twisted the umbrella in his fingers a moment before replying. His glance at the closed door was no more significant than his lowered tones.

"It didn't go very well with him, Graydon. He isn't here any more."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean the trial. There was a trial, you see. Haven't you heard anything?"

"Trial? He—he was arrested?" came numbly from the young man's lips.

"Can't talk any more, Graydon. I'll get it over as quickly as possible. Your father was tried for blackmail and was convicted. He is in—black in the penitentiary."

The son's face became absolutely bloodless. His eyes were full of comprehension and horror, and his body stiffened as if he were turning to stone. The word penitentiary fell slowly, mechanically, from his lips. He looked into Droom's eyes, hoping it might be a joke of the calloused old clerk.

"You—it can't be true," he murmured, his trembling hands going to his temples.

"Yes, my boy, it is true. I didn't write to you about it because I wanted to put it off as long as I could. It's for five years."

"God!" burst from the wretched son.

A wave of shame and grief sent the tears flooding to his eyes. "Poor old dad!" He turned and walked to the window, his shoulders heaving. Droom stood silent for a long time, watching Harbison's son, pity and triumph in his face.

"Do you want to hear about it?" he asked at last. Graydon's head was bent in assent.

"It came the day after you left Chicago with the recruits. I knew you would not read the newspapers. So did he. Harbison swore out the papers, and he was arrested here in this office. I believe he would have killed himself if he had been given time. His revolver was—or not loaded. Before the officers came he discharged me. I was at liberty to go or to testify against him. I did neither. Of course I was arrested, but they could only prove that I was a clerk who knew absolutely nothing about the inside workings of the office. I offered to go on his bond, but he would not have me. He made some arrangement through his attorney, and he was secured. In spite of the fact that he was charged with crime he insisted on keeping these offices and trying to do business. It wasn't because he needed money, Graydon, but because he wanted to lead an honest life, he said. He has a great deal of money, let me tell you. The grand jury indicted him last spring, but the trial did not come up until last month, nearly a year later, so swift is justice in this city. In the meantime I saw but little of him. I was working on an invention, and, besides, there were detectives watching every movement I made. I stuck close to my room. By the way, I want to show you a couple of models I have perfected. Don't let me forget it. They—"

"Yes, yes—but father? Go on."

"Well, the trial came up at last. That man Harbison is a devil. He had twenty witnesses, any one of whom could have convicted your father. How he got on to them I cannot imagine. He uncovered every dead we've—er—he had in Chicago and—"

"Then he really was guilty?" groaned Graydon.

WILLIAM WHYTE, WHO HOLDS THE KEY TO THE SITUATION IN THE CANADIAN PACIFIC STRIKE.

Winnipeg, Man.—With the arrival of William Whyte, second vice president of the Canadian Pacific railroad at Winnipeg, the strike has taken on a much more cheerful aspect. Born the strike men and the railroad officials believe that he can handle the situation in such a manner that out of the chaotic condition which now prevails, peace and profit will come. Mr. Whyte is universally liked by the men of the road. On numerous occasions he has taken their part, and has always won their respect by his fair play. They believe that "Bill" Whyte is on the level. When the strike started Mr. Whyte was in Vancouver, but he immediately started for Winnipeg in order to be in the center of the fight. One of his first moves was to issue a statement which put the men right on one point, that of the importation of strike breakers from the United States. This report has been generally circulated and was creating no end of trouble and discord among the strikers. As soon as Mr. Whyte's statement was issued, denouncing the report, the men generally took his word for it and ceased harping on this unpopular phase of the situation. Affairs at the present time are at a deadlock. Almost every day some sympathetic union, which is not directly allied with the strikers, but which is in sympathy, walks out, as for instance, when the men employed in the Canadian Pacific stores walked out refusing to issue the stores to strike breakers. The men have placed a high board fence entirely around the central plant at Winnipeg and are carrying on a very strenuous campaign.

It is useless to say that they dress as they do to please other women or please men. They dress simply because they have to in their own way and to their own satisfaction. The psychology of dress is that it appears to make you be what you profess to be.
